Mail Delivery Service Here Is Possibility

Antioch Meets All But One of Postal Regulation Requirements

House-to-house mail delivery in Antioch sought for many years by civic groups here, and lately investigated by the Antioch Chamber of Commerce, seems to be again snatched by the lack of sufficient population within the village.

Antioch will be able to meet all requirements for consideration of the delivery with the exception of meeting the minimum population figure, set at 2500 by postal department regulations. In the past efforts to have this particular requirement set aside has met with failure.

A letter, received this week from Acting Assistant Postmaster General C. B. Uttley, setting forth requirements is reproduced below:

December 22, 1952

Mr. Charles J. Cermak, Jr., President, Antioch Chamber of Commerce, Antioch, Illinois.

Dear Mr. Cermak:

Reference is made to your letter dated November 20, requesting a survey of Antioch, Illinois, to determine if the community can qualify for city delivery service.

City delivery service may be established at any city having postal receipts of at least $10,000 for the preceding fiscal year and having a population of 2,500 or more residing with territory possessing good continuous sidewalks, improved streets, house numbers, street signs and mail receptacles or door slots, provided the territory is 50 per cent improved with houses erected. The requirement with regard to sidewalks may be waived if satisfactory walks have been provided from the doors to the curb.

The receipts for the Antioch post office for the preceding year, ended December 31, 1951, were $30,181.00 and, therefore, the requirement with regard to receipts is met, however, according to the 1950 census the population was 1307 which is below the requirement of 2500 persons residing within territory which would be served. If the population has increased sufficiently since the 1950 census to meet this requirement and we are so advised, consideration will be given to the establishment of city delivery service at Antioch.

Sincerely yours,
(signed) C. B. Uttley
Acting Asst. Postmaster General.
Estab. File
PM Antioch, Ill.

President Charles Cermak of the Chamber said today that the matter would be taken up at the next regular meeting of the organization, and that it was possible that a new census of the village would be sponsored by the Chamber. Cermak added that he felt quite certain the 1307 figure given out in the 1950 census was no longer correct and that it seemed quite possible the total had reached the required 2500 by this time.

A survey of population by the postal department is a possibility, he added, but also said that an unofficial census would probably be necessary first in order to have some basis on which to approach the postoffice officials.

Bussie's Keglers Top Libertyville Merchants, Pabst Blue Ribboners

In match play recently Bussie's Lounge defeated the Libertyville Merchants by the close score of 2832 to 2827.

G. Grange of Libertyville was high man for the evening with games of 201, 226, and 223 for a total of 650. Roy Weselius of Antioch broke 600 for second high with games of 232, 200, and 183 for a total of 615.

Antioch took the first game 945 to 911, and the second game 952 to 875, but lost heavily in the third 935 to 1941.

The Antioch team is the same that recently won from the Pabst Blue Ribbons at Waukegan after having trailed in the major league standings. The members are Carl Neuman, Roy Weselius, Ed Carney, Bill Keulman and Truman Gerretson.

Members of the Libertyville team: T. Cavalier, Al Cavalier, G. Grange, Paul Radke, and Harold

Bank Robbers Are Sentenced Monday

The two men who held up the First National Bank here on Nov. 14, making a short-lived getaway with $6670, were sentenced Monday to twelve and one-half years each in federal prison.

The two men, Herbert Morrison, 41, and Arthur C. Dubanks, 32, entered a plea of guilty on Nov. 25, and were sentenced by Judge John P. Barnes in Chicago Monday, after a pre-sentence investigation by Judge Barnes.

Antioch Plans Quiet New Year's Day With Few Large Partys

Antioch is planning a rather quiet New Year's Eve and Day.

Most business places will close for the day and industries are expected to observe the holiday.

Resorts and restaurants are advertising open house and there is evidence of fewer big parties this year.

Many small groups will observe the midnight watch.

In advertising open house for New Year's Day, George Kilgore, operator of the 19th Hole on Rte. 59, announced that he has been given a Duncan Hines rating for 1953. The only other place in Lake county to receive this distinction in the book by the national authority on best places to eat is Mathon's in Waukegan.

Antioch merchants this week are devoting their time to inventory of greatly depleted stocks. Some of them said it was the best Christmas trade they have ever had. Purchases were of the more moderately priced goods, showing that there wasn't a great deal of lavish spending that took place in some years.

Urge Careful Driving Over Holiday Week-end

With unsettled weather very apt to make roads hazardous New Year's eve merry-makers are urged to celebrate in Antioch and community. In Antioch and within a radius of a very few miles are many fine restaurants and resorts, most of whom are making special preparations for New Year's Eve.

Predictions are that the Illinois traffic toll over the holiday will be 251 lives, and poor weather conditions may tend to increase this figure.

Motorists can considerably reduce their prospects of traffic accidents by heeding the following program:

1. Drive only if visibility and braking power allow complete control.
2. Plan trip so as to allow for bad weather and crowded roads, allow sufficient time.
3. Check road conditions before leaving, if stranded stay where you are safe.
4. Under no circumstances travel without shoes or sand and shovel.
5. Never over-indulge, dangerous fatigue results in poor control of your vehicle.
6. Remember to make that "one for the road" a cup of coffee.

Rescue Squad Gifts Continue to Come in

The roll of donors to the Antioch Rescue Squad fund continues to grow, with new contributors being listed weekly. Below are the latest contributors:

Fire Department Called
The Antioch fire department was called out twice Sunday.

The first call was at 2 p. m. and came from Old Orchard Inn on Rte. 21 where grass caught from a rubbish fire at the rear of the building.

The second call was at 12:15 o'clock in the morning and came from 937 Main st. where an oil stove exploded in a log cabin and set fire to the linoleum.

Judge Brogan to Start Collection of Personal Taxes After January 1

300 Taxpayers in Township In Debt an Estimated $7,500 for 1951

H. John Brogan, justice of the peace for Antioch Township, said that he will start proceedings after Jan. 1 to collect personal taxes from approximately 300 persons in the township who are delinquent in their payments for 1951.

"I don't go back of that year," said Justice Brogan, but it will be an annual procedure hereafter."

The justice of the peace placed the range of delinquent tax debts from $6.75 to $600 and said the average will be about $25.

"There are two persons who owe more than $500, the limit wherein cases can be handled by a justice of the peace," said Brogan. "Those cases must be taken to the county court."

The state's attorney's office announced several weeks ago that it would begin its enforcement of collections on delinquent personal taxes and called many of the township justices of the peace in for briefing on the procedure.

The action came from pressure on the part of the Lake County Farm Bureau and the Tax Payers' Association demanding that owners of personal property pay their taxes.

On the basis of Judge Brogan's estimate $7,500 could be collected in Antioch township.

Brogan said that many persons already have paid the county treasurer and a few have paid him in effort to escape court action.

He expects to handle all cases for the township.

Waukegan township began its collection yesterday.

Millburn Man Places 3rd in 15th National Corn Growing Contest

Robert Denman, Millburn, was third place winner in the fifteenth National Corn Growing contest, winners of which were announced this week. First place for the county was taken by Paul Berry of Grayslake, and second by Rudy Elder of Mundelein.

It takes good farming to raise 145 bushels of corn per acre, but that's what Mr. Berry did. Denman and Elder were not far behind in yield. Awards were made at a banquet held in DeKalb in December.

The fifteenth annual National contest had more than 5000 entries all over the corn belt. Twenty-five states and Canada were represented.

Mr. and Mrs. Kufalk Celebrate Twenty-Sixth Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Roy I. Kufalk celebrated their twenty-sixth wedding anniversary with a dinner and party at their home Sunday. Their son, Robert, a student at Northwestern, and Mrs. Kufalk of Evanston, their daughter, Verna Mae of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Cleveland and daughter, Carol, of Rockford, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Runyard, daughter, Virginia and son, Kenneth, Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hawkins, son Donald and daughter, Myra, Waukegan, Clarence Kufalk, and Robert Wilton, Kendall college, Evanston.

Boys Arrested Sunday At Petite Lake for Disorderly Conduct

De Witt Culver, 19, of 2718 Sheridan rd., Zion, and Clyde Hendrickson, 1326 Morrow ave., North Chicago, were arrested by sheriff's deputies Albert Koch, Myles Freeman, and Frank Kazlauskis Sunday night at Petite lake for disorderly conduct.

The police were called to the residence of Robert Plechaty at 9:45 p. m. by a complaint that the two young men had driven a car into Plechaty's yard and had damaged shrubbery. He held the two until police came.

Culver then told a story of a trip to Antioch to see his brother and of Hendrickson having gone to sleep in a back seat. Then, he said, two strangers commandeered the car and drove them to Petite lake where they were abandoned. The officers didn't believe the story, and the two are in the county jail awaiting trial. They were said to have been drinking.

Culver, according to police has been in jail often.

Harry Hanke, 47, Dies of Injuries Rec. in Auto Crash

Harry Hanke, 47, Cross Lake, died Wednesday, Dec. 24, at 4:30 p. m., from injuries received in an automobile accident on highway 21 between Loon lake and Town Line roads. He was born in Antioch July 16, 1905 and lived here until moving to Cross Lake April 1, 1952. He was employed with the Morton Manufacturing company at Libertyville.

Survivors are a sister, Elsie Glassman, Salem; a brother, August, Burlington. His father, William Hanke, preceded him in death January 9, 1951 and his mother, Anna, on May 2, 1946.

Funeral services were held Saturday at the Strang Funeral home. Interment was in Hillside cemetery. The Rev. E. D. Hulse of Salem officiated at the service.

Chain O' Lakes Cleaners Employees Entertained

Twenty employees of the Chain O' Lakes Cleaners were entertained last Tuesday evening, Dec. 23, at a Christmas party, held by the company at Old Orchard Inn, route 21, south of Antioch.

A ham dinner was served and each employee received a turkey as a gift of the company.

Gavin P. T. A. to Hold Meeting January 6

The next meeting of the Gavin P. T. A. will be held Jan. 6, at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the school.

The program for the evening will be a skit given by the boy scouts and cub scouts, under the direction of the scout master, Clarence Lindahl and Cub Master George Shenk. Fifth grade mothers will be hostesses for the evening.

Employees and officers of the State Bank of Antioch were guests of the bank at a dinner at Smart's Country house last Saturday, Dec. 20.

Ronald Scully, a student at the University of Wisconsin, is spending the holidays in Antioch with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Scully.

1952 Was Very Prosperous Year For Antioch And Lakes Region

Antioch Loses to Zion First Defeat of Year; Richmond Here Friday

Personal Fouls Cost Game to ZeeBees 44 to 48, at Zion

Antioch High will play the second of its two non-conference holiday games Friday night with Richmond as the opponent.

Both the varsity and the underclassmen will see action and will try to do a comeback from their initial losses at Zion last Friday night. Richmond has a good team but has been beaten several times.

Personal fouls took two of Antioch's good players, Bob Floyd and Bob Weber, from the lineup and saddled two other players, Jerry Quilty and Ben Floyd four fouls each through much of the game, caused the first defeat of the season for the Sequoits at Zion. The ZeeBees won 48 to 44.

The Sequoits were charged with 24 personals—almost twice as many as in any of their previous five games.

The Antioch cheerleaders were given much credit by observers for their control of the Antioch cheering section which responded to good sportsmanship in spite of what seemed to be critical work on the part of the referees.

Despite the crippling loss of two star performers and the gain the Zionites made through the free throws, the Sequoits showed a grand display of spirit and fought to the last second.

The first half was deadlocked at 17-all. The second half saw the advantage change six times in the first four minutes of play and the Sequoits were leading 23 to 22 when Bob Floyd went out of the game on personal fouls. Zion immediately grabbed the initiative and finished the quarter ahead 33 to 29.

The deadly shooting of Bob Weber in the fourth quarter brought the score to a 41-41 tie, and then he, too, was eliminated via the personal foul route. His loss was just too much for the Sequoits, and Ronny Kasamo, ZeeBee star, garnered five points to bring victory to his team and run his total points to 15 for the evening.

Ben Floyd was high point man for Antioch with 12 markers, and Bob Weber and Bruce Stahmer added 10 and 9 points respectively.

The Antioch freshman-sophomore team after holding the Zion underclassmen to a 36-36 tie at the third period, succumbed to a fourth quarter onslaught, losing to Zion 54 to 41.

Bobby Middleton scored 12 points for Zion and Mike Haviland was top scorer for Antioch with 11 points.

Father of Mrs. G. W. Jensen Dies Dec. 24

Funeral services for William A. Boudrow, father of Mrs. G. W. Jensen, were held in Chicago Saturday, Dec. 27. He passed on Christmas Eve at the Victory Memorial hospital, Waukegan.

He has made his home in Antioch with the Jensens for several years.

Attend Teachers Conference

Principal Albert Dittman and Warren Polley of the Antioch High school attended the annual conference of the Illinois Educational Association at Chicago this week. Polley served as secretary of the National Business Teachers Association division which met at the Congress hotel.

Business Houses Report Sales Well Above 1951 Totals

Antioch, with a reputation for the best business town of its size in the country, again lived up to its reputation this year with a substantial increase in trade. Business places around the lakes region also report a great increase in business for the year.

The last-minute Christmas rush, which has long been a tradition in Antioch did not materialize this year, as in the past, it was noted by most of the merchants. There was, rather, a steady flow of business, during December.

All during the year, business has been more steady and less spotty, and business at the resorts was also more steady, with a goodly number of vacationists here each week-end and no great rush over the several holidays.

Most merchants in Antioch report gross sales up during 1952 from 10 to 25 per cent, and most of the lake resorts are also well above other years.

Older residents, familiar with the trend of business over the years, have observed that the area is gradually becoming settled with more and more permanent residents, which will eventually result in an even balance of business throughout the year, rather than a hectic summer season and a "dead" winter.

Village Board to Meet In Special Session to Discuss Water Well

A special meeting of the village board of trustees has been called for this (Tuesday) evening at which time plans for the new water well will be discussed and plans made for some kind of action at the regular meeting on Jan. 6.

Mayor James McMillen has called in Engineer David Miller for consultation and with his suggestions it will be determined just what the size of the well shall be and how much shall be spent on equipment.

The village has prospects for a good well at but 150-foot depth. There is a vein of about 25 feet of gravel which contains the water. The test well last drilled about 80 feet south of the place where the backstop for the public baseball diamond is located and is about 179 feet east of the Soo line tracks on village property.

The shallow depth at which the water is obtained means comparatively small cost in the amount of casing and the pumping of the water. If the well is drilled it would be connected with the village system at the east end of Ida ave.

Downey Hospital Needs Attendants and Stenos

The Veterans Administration hospital, Downey, Ill., announces vacancies for Hospital attendant at a beginning salary of $2500 per year. There are also critical shortages of typists and stenographers. These positions pay a beginning salary of $2750 and $2950 per year.

Interested applicants may make application directly to the Personnel Office, VA Hospital, Downey, Ill., or through the Illinois State Employment Service office in their localities.

Opportunities for advancement to higher grade positions exist as well as to other lines of work for which applicants are qualified.

The usual annual leave and sick leave advantages accrue to these employees and quarters and subsistence are available on the station if desired.

Judge Minard E. Hulse To Address Men's Club

The Men's Club of the Methodist church will hold its regular meeting in Wesley hall Monday and will have County Judge Minard E. Hulse of Waukegan as speaker.

All men are invited to this meeting which will be preceded by a dinner at 6:45 p. m. served by the ladies of the church. Good food and an interesting evening are promised by the committee in charge.

The Press and the Railroads

More and more American newspapers have been editorially urging that our system of transportation regulations be thoroughly revised, that obsolete laws be consigned to oblivion, and that new laws based on existing facts be written to replace them.

For example, the Philadelphia Daily News recently said, "The railroads today are regulated under the laws creating the Interstate Commerce Commission and the various state utilities commissions. Many of the regulations adopted 65 years ago still control them . . . In addition, all other forms of transportation enjoy government subsidies, which the railroads do not . . . The railroads . . . are entitled, not to preferential treatment, but to plain, simple justice in their efforts to continue serving the nation."

At about the same time the Boston American said, "The railroads are obstructed almost to the point of ruin by antiquated rules which boost their operational costs and impose unwarranted burdens on all business and industrial establishments . . . In the interest of the country's normal growth and expansion, both the national and state law-making bodies should view the railroads as they are this year of 1952, not as they were back at the turn of the century."

The Hartford Times said, also at about the same time, "The time has come for the railroads . . . to be freed from some of the more burdensome restrictions, regulations and governmental red tape . . . If this can be accomplished, the railroads can cut their costs, give better service, and earn reasonable profits in competition with other forms of transportation."

Many similar editorial views could be quoted. The country's newspapers know how vitally important fair and equitable regulation of all kinds of transportation is to the national welfare and the national security alike.

Holding the Lead

It is reported that nearly 55 per cent of all the heat and mechanical energy produced in this country from 1800 through 1950 was derived from coal.

In that long span of time, other fuels have waxed and waned in importance—wood, as an example, used to be second on the list but is now longer a source of power. But coal's position has not materially changed. Today, as centuries ago, it is a primary producer of energy, and in all probability it will retain this leadership.

It is authoritatively forecast that the demand for soft coal alone in the next 50 years will exceed the 31,000,000,000 tons of anthracite and bituminous coal which have been consumed in the last century and a half. One reason for this is that we will probably need double our present power supply in the next two decades or so. Another is that we have abundant reserves of coal—and, equally important, a progressive and highly competitive coal industry which makes the most of them.

One phase of the coal industry's work is of exceptional interest. It lies in research, which devises better ways to use coal, and also searches for new and valuable products that can be chemically derived from coal. The list of such products is a very long and varied one now. And the gates have barely been opened, the scientists believe. Coal's contribution to better living and working will continue to grow.

A Year of Change

During recent months, beef has been flooding into market in huge quantities, and the prices of most cuts are lower than they were a year ago. The situation is similar for some other meats. For instance, the packers have been offering pork at average wholesale prices which are about 21 per cent below the 1947 level, even though wages and taxes and most other costs of doing business have risen substantially since then.

At the end of the summer of 1951, by contrast, beef was in the smallest supply in eight years and prices were near their all-time high.

Many things have contributed to so great a change in little more than a year. One of them is especially worth noting. "We approached a point of crisis in our meat supply when it became clear that the price control authorities planned to inaugurate a "crackdown" policy which would have taken the profit out of meat production while leaving the producer with all the risks. A new black market in meat began to emerge. Almost every authority is convinced that more and more meat would have been diverted from the normal and legal channels, to the detriment of the vast majority of consumers, had not Congress stepped in and amended the price control law so as to curb those politicians who wanted to arbitrarily reduce prices regardless of what happened to agriculture and industry. Congress recognized the fact that the price a man sells his products for must honestly reflect the cost of operating his business.

The free market produces abundance because, by its very nature, it encourages people to work and invest and take risks in the hope of making a profit. And because it is intensely competitive, the free market guarantees fair prices.

Owners Are Our Best "Salesmen"!

NEVER could we tell all the wonderful things about Nash as forcefully as do Nash owners. And the more they travel—the more enthusiastic they are.

They talk about performance second to none. They talk about the world's finest ride. They talk about the life-saving safety of Airflyte Construction. They talk about beauty, about room, about luxury, about economy unmatched by any other automobile in the world today.

Read these wonderful unsolicited reports about Nash. But—better yet—drive a Nash Golden Airflyte for yourself. ... the Ambassador, Statesman or Rambler. Learn first hand about such exclusive features as Farina styling, Airflyte Construction, Airliner Reclining Seats, Twin Beds, Weather Eye Conditioned Air System, and dozens more. Come in today. Take an Airflyte ride in the world's most modern car. Once you do, you'll be enthusiastic about Nash, too!

"TAKES A BACK SEAT TO NONE"

"I have driven my 1952 Nash Ambassador 12,000 miles ... my sixth Nash and by far the best ... As McCahill says, 'It has the finest shockproof ride in the world' and it takes a back seat to none on hills, for speed or roadability ... P.S. Mrs. Leu drives a Nash Rambler." ELMORE H. LEU, Fond du Lac, Wisc.

"30,000 MILES ... $9.32 REPAIRS"

"After 30,000 miles of hard driving in less than one year ... the total amount of repairs on my Nash Rambler has been $9.32, which to me is almost unbelievable." G. DARWIN KITCHEN, Huntington, W. Va.

"EIGHT OF US"

"... I found seven of my friends from camp stranded ... all their luggage on top of my golf bags and baggage fitted neatly into the roomy trunk (1952 Ambassador). All eight of us, four in front and four in back, were seated without anyone sitting on anyone else's lap." SFC LEON E. ROSENTHAL, Camp Pickett.

"32.3 MILES PER GALLON"

"I drove from Beloit to Minocqua, Wisc., (275 miles) on 8.8 gallons ... 32.3 miles per gallon ... at 50 miles per hour ... Around town, I have been getting 25-27 ... I have found my Rambler to have excellent riding comfort and it's a joy to drive." MARGARET ANKERSEN, Beloit, Wisc.

"HELPED SAVE ME"

"Car turned over three times ... I received only a few scratches ... it helped save me ... for security in the event of an accident, there is no better construction than Nash ..." ARTHUR S. HARGETT, Baltimore, Maryland.

"CAN'T BE BEAT"

"I have owned 14 Nash cars ... they are the best cars I have ever driven and I have owned and driven nearly all other makes and models ... for riding, economy, and for speed under all kinds of driving encountered in police work ... they can't be beat. They're tops." Chief of Police, HAROLD WALLACE, Sikeston, Missouri.

AS A USED CAR, TOO, NASH IS TOPSI

Here's what men say who know used car values—used car dealers and auctioneers. "The 'hottest' car on Used Car Lots." O.K. AUTO AUCTION, Cleveland, Ohio.

"We operate one of the largest dealers wholesale auctions in the world ... and among used car dealers the Nash line is always in demand. The only complaint we have is that we don't receive enough Nash Ramblers." WITTS' AUTO AUCTION, Decatur, Illinois.

Library Notes

Mary Ellen Chase has given the course, The Literature of the Bible, at Smith college for the past fourteen years. Her new book, "Readings from the Bible," incorporates her teachings so that her study of Bible literature may reach a larger audience. Each reading is prefaced by a perceptive introduction which throws fresh light on the characters and incidents described.

"Answer without Ceasing" is Margaret Runbeck's book about the power of prayer in everyday life. The incidents described are often highly unconventional and intimately informal but they bring encouragement and faith to the relationship of God and man. "Readings from the Bible" and "Answer Without Ceasing" were presented to the Antioch Township Library in memory of Mrs. Artie Grice.

In the field of home care and furnishings, two new books will be useful. "Furnishing Your Home" by Ruth Austin and Jeanette Parvis is a practical guide to home decorating from finishing walls and floors to selecting furniture and accessories. "The Amateur Finisher's Guide-book," by Borden Hall, gives complete directions for painting or refinishing walls, floors and furniture.

Benjamin P. Thomas has written the first complete one volume biography of Abraham Lincoln to be published since Lord Charnwood's. Like Charnwood's, Thomas' "Abraham Lincoln" bids fair to be a classic in the field and includes much material unknown thirty-five years ago.

In "The Course of Empire," Bernard De Voto has written the magnificent story of the men who explored and, bit by bit, conquered this continent. He shows their impact on the wilderness, but more than that, the impact of the wilderness on them and the consequent gradual emergence of a new people in a new world.

"Daughter of Confucius," Wong Su-Ling, was born in a household of the old China in 1918. The story of the unbelievable changes that overtook her tradition bound life includes a mass conversion of the entire household of 51 persons to Christianity, the coming of war with Japan and her flight to safety in America.

The above books were given to the library in memory of Mrs. A. P. Bratude.

Mrs. Lena Kuhaup left Antioch Dec. 26 for Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., where she will spend the winter.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

That we can better understand God as we look to Him and acknowledge His omnipotence and omnipresence will be explained in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 4. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be GOD.

The Golden Text is from Isaiah (45: 22) "Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth: for I am God, and there is none else."

Lesson-Sermon passages from the Bible (King James Version) include:
"And one of the scribes came, and having heard them reasoning together, and perceiving that he had answered them well, asked him, Which is the first commandment of all? And Jesus answered him, The first of all the commandments is, Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord." (Mark 12: 28, 29).

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include:

"GOD. The great I AM; the all-knowing, all-seeing, all-acting, all-wise, all-loving, and eternal; Principle; Mind; Soul; Spirit; Life; Truth; Love; all substance; intelligence. . . . God is what the Scriptures declare Him to be.—Life, Truth, Love. Spirit is divine Principle, and divine Principle is Love, and Love is Mind, and Mind is not both good and evil, for God is Mind; therefore there is in reality one Mind only, because there is one God." (pp. 37, 330).

SHORT STORY

Samson's Wife

By Margaret Cobb

HE WAS right behind her when she left the bus at Broad and Main, and she knew without looking that it was the same blond young man who had caught her eye when she boarded the bus.

She hurried up Broad Street. In a mirrored store front she could see that he was behind her, sauntering easily along with a humorous twist to his wide mouth.

Slowing up, she examined over-carefully the contents of a number of a dress shop windows. Two blocks later she glanced around nonchalantly, just to prove to herself that he had passed on his way. He was studying the sweaters displayed by the next-to-last store at which she had lingered.

Her high-heeled sandals tapped angrily on the pavement. Her slender back tightened. She turned into the next shop.

When she left the store he was waiting, leaning against a window.

She gathered up her purse and periodical and stepped confidently through the heavy swinging doors. She lingered in the book department for a happy moment before turning briskly to leave the department, and she had almost reached the elevators before he stepped from behind a showcase.

One helpless glance, and she shrugged. "I may as well forget you're here and go on about my shopping," she shrugged said. She turned on her heel and entered the infants' department.

"My little girl is wearing out the things she inherited from her brother," she told the clerk. "Let me see some clothes for a six-month-old."

She selected nightgowns. "I'll take these," she said, "Charge, please." The saleswoman readied her little book. "Name and address, Ma'am?"

He had taken a position within earshot. "Never mind," the girl said hastily, "I'll pay for them."

ON Broad Street once more, she scorned display windows. Crossing the street, she concentrated her attention on the men's shop. Coming to a full stop before one whose windows were crowded with athletic equipment she swung about and marched inside.

While waiting her turn she noted that the blond young man was absently studying a display of trout flies at the other end of the counter. "Wait on you, Miss?" A clerk asked.

"I want a birthday present for my husband. I thought—well, he likes to exercise with those heavy things—bars—you know."

"A fifty pounder, perhaps?"

"Oh no!" Her gay laugh tinkled politely. "He passed those years ago. And he always uses two of them. He thinks men who use just one are soft." She bit her underlip thoughtfully. "Now let me see—what was it he said? That's it! He wanted some weighing two hundred pounds."

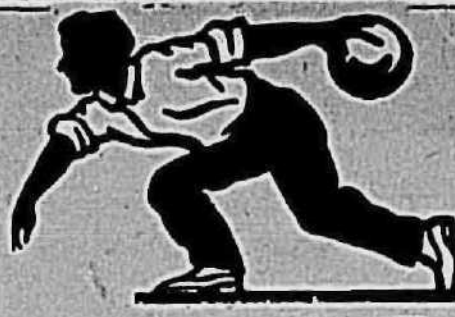

The clerk stared. "A two hundred pounder? Two of them?"

"Oh yes," She smiled demurely. "All right, Miss—Ma'am." The clerk shrugged. "We'll have to order them, though."

The blond young man seemed to be regarding the trout flies with disfavor, and even as she darted a glance at him he edged rapidly toward the door.

On the street again, she walked a full two blocks miraculously beautifully alone. She went into the confectioner's and lingered a long while over a banana split, and no one followed. When she left the store its plate glass windows were in noont of loungers.

With a happy smile Miss Janet Grant, spinster, flipped her packages into a convenient relief-drive barrel, allowed her conscience a brief moment's pang over the 400 pound parcel traveling to a fictitious address, and headed for the nearest movie.

Cairo's Hello Is More Like Benediction

CAIRO—Near the heart of Cairo in Egypt, close to the Abdin Palace from which King Farouk has fled, millions of words of blessing will pour through the nation's largest telephone exchange, newly installed near Bab el-Luk.

"Good health be with you, my brother," and "To you good health and the blessings of Allah,"—thus Moslems preface their telephone conversations.

The Bab el-Luk area might be called the Square of the Gate That Isn't There, for a small park has replaced the old gate, or "Bab." The park occupies a key position in the teeming Egyptian capital.

Near King Tut's Mask
The area also is well known for its railway station serving a short line to the fashionable suburb of Maadi. To the west there is considerable building activity where the old Kasr el-Nil barracks are giving way to modern buildings. Within sight is the Egyptian Museum which houses, among other things, the heavy gold funerary mask of King Tut-Ankh-Amen.

To the north are the hotels, movie palaces, banks, and office buildings of a modern city of more than two million people. Perhaps the sharpest contrast, ancient to modern, is observed when pretty Egyptian girls in shorts play basketball at the coeducational American University. They play on a court near the ancient Bab el-Luk, and within a stone's throw of the modern telephone exchange.

Cairo is filled with such contrasts. When it was a walled city, each "bab" or gate took its name from or lent its name to an area. One of these gates, the Bab ez-Zuweilah, still stands and is a prime attraction for tourist photographers.

Many of the Faithful call it the Gate of the Mutawalli, holiest of those who "stand near God," and to its iron bars shreds of clothing are tied as votive offerings.

But none of the ancient gate sites can compete with Bab el-Luk in contrasts. Thus, in the midst of Cairo's political changes and disorders, a stranger listening in at the new Bab el-Luk telephone exchange might well be confused by the expressions of good will which precede the prosaic and contentious business of the day. Salams weave back and forth over a network of wires.

Note-in-Bottle Love Affair Dies in Cork

CORK, Ireland—The breathlessly awaited love affair between the Irish milkmaid and the American pen pal she found in a bottle is not to be.

Breda O'Sullivan, 24, told reporters: "There is no romance, and there will be no wedding."

"That's right," agreed Frank Hayostak, the 27 year old arc welder of Johnstown, Pa.

He started the whole business when he tossed a bottle with his address in it from a ship taking him across the Atlantic in 1945 as a homeward bound GI. She plucked the note off the beach, and they started to correspond.

Recently he flew from America to meet her. The visited Blarney castle to kiss the famed Blarney stone, as all tourists must. The stone is supposed to impart to those whose lips touch it the gift of moving eloquence.

And Breda and Frank were eloquent when they blushed, laughed and told hovering reporters there would be no romantic storybook ending to their friendship. However, Breda said she and Frank would remain good pen pals.

Coffee 'Sneak' Becomes 'Break' in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES—The first municipal recognition of man's inalienable right to drink a cup of coffee during working hours on the bosses' time is working out fine for both the City of Los Angeles and its 15,000 employees, according to Samuel Leask, Jr., administrative officer.

Los Angeles became the first U.S. city to legalize coffee breaks for municipal workers when it passed an ordinance authorizing employees to take 15 minutes each morning and afternoon at no loss of pay or time to themselves. Previously, city workers had been permitted to take such breaks but the time was deducted from their lunch periods when—and if—employees reported it.

According to Leask, replacement of the coffee "sneak" with the regulated coffee break has been a decided "plus" operation for the city.

"The purpose of making the coffee breaks legal and regulated was to increase work output and thus promote efficiency and economy in the conduct of city business," he said. "After several months of observation, it certainly seems to be working out that way."

"Just like the coffee break in offices and factories, our city rest periods have ended time-wasting 'sneak outs' and other abuses which were costly to taxpayers."

Postman Hoards Undelivered Mail In His Basement

DETROIT—A four-years' accumulation of stolen and undelivered letters and parcel post packages were discovered recently cached away in the basement of a veteran mail carrier's home. His wife, who went to the basement regularly, denied any knowledge of the "misplaced" mail.

The carrier, Roman J. Kortes, 50, explained that he took the loot "because I just couldn't help it." He has been with the post office 28 years.

He pleaded guilty when arraigned before Federal Judge Theodore Levin on a two count indictment charging him with embezzlement from the mails. He was released on $1,000 personal bond.

Convictions can mean a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $4,000 fine for the carrier.

Two large post office trucks were sent to Kortes' home to remove the mail and packages. Merchandise was stacked from floor to ceiling in the basement.

Postal inspectors said at least 10,000 letters, most of them unopened, were found in boxes.

The mail overflowed the basement into Kortes' garage.

Postal Inspector Earl W. Wheeler and Charles Viculis, a foreman, nabbed Kortes as he walked to his car carrying two packages from the morning mail, concealed in a cardboard box.

Wheeler said Kortes stole parcels directly from his Gratiot substation as well as from his route. After a day's work he would carry out several "empty" boxes, Wheeler said, but only the top box would be actually empty.

Kortes said he sought valuables and money and added he spent enjoyable hours reading personal letters from time to time.

Another Shaw Joke Arises From Grave

LONDON—George Bernard Shaw's witty repartees still are being cataloged by his admirers.

It is said that one day, when Orson Welles visited the skeleton-like playwright, the conversation turned to the subject of Britain's economic plight.

"Looking at you, master," Welles is reported to have told Shaw, "one realizes the dreadful privations undergone by the British."

"And, looking at you," G.B.S. snapped back at the round cheeked, rotund younger man, "one gathers who's responsible."

Dark Linens

You'll be seeing dark linens for those smart, good looking dresses which have an expensive simplicity of detail. A good example of this is a black linen sun dress with a bolero, both with organdie insets.

DEEP LAKE

Mrs. E. Green of Deep Lake spent a few days visiting with her daughter, Mrs. L. Spranger of Oak Park. Mr. and Mrs. O. Herbst left on Dec. 16 for a vacation in Florida. L. Schneider has again returned to the Lake County hospital, this making his third trip to the hospital for surgery. He plans to be in over the holiday season. Mrs. Nancy Reardon is expected home for a few days around the New Year. Miss Mary Messler of California is expected to vacation at Deep Lake this summer to spend some time with her friends. Mrs. Evelyn Ennis is planning on having her granddaughter, Norma Frank with her for the Christmas holiday. Al Gratton is planning to visit his wife, Ethel, who is vacationing in Florida, around the first of January. Mr. and Mrs. W. Ufer of Gratton road are leaving January 28 for a vacation in Honolulu. The Deep Lake Women's Auxiliary had their annual Christmas party Friday, Dec. 19, at Henning Johnson's resort. Through rain, icy streets, and wind the ladies arrived—all bundled up in scarfs, boots, gloves and heavy coats to the main party of the year! Due to the icy roads, many walked and others had their husbands drive them to attend the affair. After the usual meeting Christmas gifts were presented, with each gift received an exclamation of joy was heard. The gifts were mostly personal. Beautiful pins, earrings, necklaces, scarfs, bracelets, aprons and many more articles were received, each was as pretty as the one before. The table setting was just wonderful. There were tasty rolled sandwiches, home made coffee cakes, kolachys and oeuvres. The hostesses responsible for these fine foods were Millie Luhr, Oda Iversen, Hannah Koller, Louisa Hoyer and Muriel Swanson. Plans are being made by the Deep Lakeltes in having a New Year's eve party at Henning Johnson's, also hoping this one goes off as well as the Women's Auxiliary party.

Earliest Grains
The origin of agriculture is inseparably linked with the origin of civilization, and wheat and barley were the plants grown by people of the earliest known cultures.

Al Spang's trite saying: "Some people never seem to get too old or infirm to jump at conclusions." Contributor's Section

This year we had a lot to be thankful for, including the following contribution from Tom Morrow of the Tribune. "There have been many requests from Mrs. Helen Walker, who believes that her husband, The Duke, (the normal motorman of this column) could better employ his time beating a rug, that I write about 300 words on copy readers. Newspaper copyreaders are very little like aardvarks, or if you wish to be technical, like anything else . . . except the third row in a theatre which does not have any people in it, and which has been closed for eighty-three (83) years. They are not much like aardvarks, because aardvarks very seldom eat their young. The copy readers are . . . in power . . . something like the Supreme Being, except that as far as the latest bulletins are concerned, the Supreme Being does not have a pencil. Copy readers always have pencils, and unless both of their arms and the pencil are broken, will do something with those pencils. No newspaper copyreader ever has made a mistake since 1843, which was quite a cold year when one of these creatures forgot his overshoes. As this man was quite sparse haired, it was hoped that something might come from this, but he recovered handily. To be perfectly fair about the thing, the man was left-handed. One copy-reader of my acquaintance . . . quite a sad case . . . ended in the divorce courts. He was visiting a portly barber in White Sulphur Springs and sat down to write his wife a letter. As fast as he completed the first paragraph of this letter, however, he would cross it out, a copyreader's occupational disease. Naturally, the letter never was completed. His wife—sub normal, herself—thought she should have some tidings of her spouse, even if he were a copy reader, and as he forgot where he lived, the whole thing ended in a shambles. This about covers the paper except that a Rockford man (the Duke's home town) who was a trifle harassed by his neighbor's children, claimed that he had a perfect spot for a play-pen for these young. "Where?" he was asked. "Right in the middle of Route 20," he replied.—Tom Morrow.

Anonymous Department:

I certainly do wish folks would sign their names when they send me clever stuff . . . stuff like this: "You may come to any conclusion you desire, about our Mexican Ambassador resigning, but such a situation would have never occurred if President Truman were still living." THE DUKE OF PADUCAH.

Comfy Bed for Boxer

A three-side dog bed for a boxer can be made by cutting the sides and back from pine boards one inch thick and 10 inches wide. Sides should be curved at the opening. To the lumber nail a piece of tempered hardboard, tree - sixteenths - inch thick, for a splinter-free, smooth bottom. Bevel all edges of this bed, which is two feet by three feet, and paint it.

Garter Snatching

The new wife, tossing her bouquet to waiting bridesmaids, doesn't know how lucky she is. The bouquet-throwing replaces garter snatching that sometimes proved damaging.

Clammy Joke

A tired-looking man walked into a restaurant, handed the waiter two vitamin pills, and asked him to dissolve them in a bowl of clam chowder. After a long interval he asked the waiter why he hadn't been served yet. "You'll get your soup, sir," said the waiter, "as soon as we get the clams to lie down."

Salt and Starch

Adding salt to your starch water on a windy day, helps to keep the clothes starched while the wind whips them around during the drying.
